Psychiatrist Requested In Binning Case

Defense Attorney Gene McGlasson has asked the county to pay for a psychiatric examination for Mrs. Ella Mae Binning.

Mrs. Binning is charged in connection with the death of her son, Marcus DeWayne Binning, 5 years old. The child is alleged to have been beaten to death.

Commissioners court Monday delayed action on the request. McGlasson was appointed by District Judge Gene Jordan to defend Mrs. Binning.

Randall County Assistant Criminal District Attorney George Dowlen discussed the request with commissioners Monday. Dowlen also is acting as county attorney.

Commissioners heard the reading of a letter from the Texas Animal Health Commission. Director R. G. Garrett said the instance of brucellosis in Randall County cattle is no more than 1 percent nor more than 5 percent of county herds.

The court approved the sale of two pieces of county property. Mann Littlefield of Happy bought a county barn and three-acre tract with a room-house for $8,500. Preston Brown of Amarillo bought a triangular tract near the Randall County court house annex in South Amarillo. The property was purchased for $2,850.

There will be no meeting of commissioners court next week.

Ready To Flip

Bill Taylor, right, readies his flipping arm for the Kiwanis Club Pancake Day coming up Saturday at the American Legion Hall. His fellow-cooks are Elton Cox, left, and Burwell Southern. Some 300 tickets have already been sold for the day-long pancake feast, and chairman Taylor hopes another 300 will be sold by Saturday. Tickets are $1 each. Bacon, sausage and a beverage will be served with the pancakes. Hours for serving are 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. There is no charge for pre-school age children.

Car License Sales End

Randall County residents have only four more days to get their 1964 car license tags, but there are plenty of places where the registration fee can be paid.

The sub-stations in South Amarillo will be open through Saturday and again Monday and Tuesday. The tags can also be purchased at the Amarillo Annex and the Courthouse in Canyon.

Deadline for registration is Tuesday night.

Bill Money, county tax assessor-collector, said the Amarillo annex will be open all day Saturday, and the Canyon office will be open until noon Saturday.

A title and last year's license receipt are required to get your 1964 tags.

Sub-station locations are Furr Food Store No. 2 at 4021 Washington and No. 3 at 3412 Georgia and at Safeway Store No. 519 at 4113 W. 34th.

Red Cross Finances Swimming Instruction

Canyon youngsters will have an opportunity to take free swimming lessons this summer.

Randall County chapter of the Red Cross will use money, which will be raised during the annual fund campaign, to provide local children with swimming lessons during the summer months.

The city pool will be open two weeks for an hour each morning this summer.

Borden Price, water safety chairman of the local committee, is conducting a survey in the Canyon schools to determine how many students will want to take the lessons beginning this summer.

"If many children want to take lessons, then several sessions will be taught," said Jerry LaGrone, chapter chairman.

At a planning session last week, the local executive committee of the Red Cross discussed plans for the annual fund raising drive.

Mrs. Shirley White, chairman of the drive, outlined plans for the door-to-door campaign which will begin Tuesday, Mar. 31.

LaGrone, Bill Davis, Joe Gidden and Dewey Bryant, all members of the committee, began the advance gifts drive last Monday, and will continue through April 5.

A goal of $1600 has been set by the local chapter.

Members of home demonstration clubs in the county and the Junior Women's Book Club will help with the drive. The women will conduct a door-to-door campaign March 31-April 5 in town. Families in the rural area will be contacted by area women, said Mrs. White.

Money which will be raised will be divided between the national Red Cross chapter and the local organization. Local funds will be used to finance the free swimming lessons this summer along with a special medical education program by home demonstration clubs.

Plans for a special "medical self help" program were discussed at the business meeting last week. Home demonstration clubs in Randall County will conduct the educational series with help from the Red Cross.

The self help program describes precautions which should be used during a fall out disaster. Local Red Cross volunteers will discuss methods to use in time of a fallout. The program is in conjunction with the civil defense fallout series.

Dewey Bryant, disaster chairman, explained that the Red Cross chapter had sponsored the serving of coffee and donuts to workers and evacuated families following the Santa Fe train wreck in west Canyon last week.

Group OKs Community Fund Split

Three Randall County organizations last week were selected to benefit from the dissolution of the Canyon Community Center Fund.

At a meeting of the fund board it was decided to split the money still held in the fund's account--more than $2,000 --three ways between the Girl Scouts, the Randall County Junior Livestock Association and the City-County Library board.

Levi Cole of the First National Bank said each group would probably receive between $700 and $800.

Mrs. Charles Nester said the money for the Girl Scouts

Appreciation Check

ALLEN SIMPSON, left, accepts a check for $1,000 from Roscoe Richardson, president of the Canyon Booster Club. Businessmen and private citizens of Canyon donated the money as a bonus to Simpson for coaching the state Class AA basketball champions. The check was given at the Tuesday night meeting of the Club.

New Tract Gets Dads Sanction

Plans to annex approximately 50 acres of land south of Canyon were approved Monday by Canyon City Commissioners.

At the final meeting presided over by Mayor Delbert Lowes, the commissioners instructed Dewey Bryant, city manager, to begin annexation plans on the land directly west of Connor Park and due south of the Hidden Valley Addition.

A. L. Crossland, Canyon businessman, asked several weeks ago that the land be annexed for building purposes. A residential area is to be developed on the land in the future.

Commissioners passed a taxicab franchise ordinance on the second reading. The ordinance, which will go into effect after the third reading, grants a cab franchise to Bill Taylor, owner of White's Auto Store in Canyon.

Bryant read a letter from the Texas Automobile Insurance Commission giving the minimum laws for insurance which cab services must carry. The Challenges Listed In School Program

Six challenges to the Canyon School System were listed in an estimate of the system made by a team of evaluators which visited the school recently.

The team's report was delivered to the school board Monday night by Dr. Berlie J. Fallon, professor of secondary education at Texas Tech. Dr. Fallon was chairman of the visiting committe.

A team of 17 educators from area schools, universities and colleges studied self-evaluation of Canyon School System made by the Canyon faculty and then spent three days on the campus.

Heading off the list was a recommendation for staffing for a maximum program of instruction and services.

The committee said a full-time person is needed to coordinate the improvement of the instructional program in the junior high school and high school. This person would work cooperatively with Mrs. A. B. Holt, who is providing this type of service in the elementary school at the present time.

One additional guidance counsellor was recommended to be responsible for testing and guidance activities at the junior high school level.

It was suggested that a full-time nurse be employed. The committee said an additional staff member is needed to provide a remedial reading program in the elementary school.

School plant expansion was listed as the second challenge. "Enrollment in the elementary school is an index of a trend toward continuing growth," the report said.

Continued build-up of library materials for students of all levels and professional library for the staff should be encouraged, according to the committee. "Accumulation and use of all types of audio-visual machines, materials and laboratory equipment for instruction should continue," the report went on.

The committee said that as the school moves toward the enrollment and operational patterns of a larger school system, continuing attention should be given to tailoring the instructional program to meet the needs of all students. This includes below average in ability, average and above average.

Special attention must be given in testing and classifying students for special types of programs.

The report said students should be grouped with students of like ability so that each student would be able to proceed at his own maximum rate of learning.

The committee said every effort should be made to meet the needs of the individual student.

The visiting team noted that Canyon has great human resources. "The patrons of the school should be utilized to a fuller extent in identifying needs and working with school staff and the board of education in meeting these needs," the report said.

The sixth challenge listed was that of getting the most from the teaching staff through assignment procedures and in-service training.

The study group suggested that balance on the staff should be noted periodically from the standpoint of age, institutions providing college training of teachers, male-female ratio on the teaching staff, to insure that as replacements are made the long range educational needs of the youth of Canyon will be served.

Dr. Fallon emphatically declared that staff members should come from a number of schools.

The visiting study group praised the board of education, the administration and the faculty of the Canyon School System but felt that the system could be improved by following recommendations set forth in the group's report.

A detailed account of the group's findings along with numerous specific recommendations is included in a 63-page booklet delivered Monday night to the board of education by Dr. Fallon.

Sugar Beets Being Planted

Sugar beet planting time is here.

A few Randall County growers have been alloted acreage and are planting the 1964 crop.

Sugar Beets have been produced on a commercial basis on the High Plains for more than 20 years.

In 1964, area sugar beet acreage will be expanded to more than 22,000 acres. A few growers on the west side of Randall County will be in the sugar beet production business.

Some farmers in the Umbarger community grew beets when production first started on the High Plains.

Beet production requires intensive production factors. Seven to 11 irrigations totaling 26 to 36 acre-inches of irrigation water are necessary for maximum yields. For the past 11 years yields have averaged 17.5 tons per acre with 13.74 percent sugar.

Costs of producing and harvesting sugar beets on the High Plains averages $120 to $140 per acre. A gross income of $219.60 per acre can be expected with an 18 ton per acre yield with a sugar content of 15%. This includes the Government payment of $2.20 per ton. Pasturing sugar beet tops offers additional income possibilities.

Growers who undertake to grow beets for the first time may have added investment capital for specialized machinery ranging from $3,500 to as high as $9,000. Growers may pool equipment or convert present equipment to specialized usage to reduce this new capital investment.

Randall County producers plan to market their beets with the Holly Sugar Company. This company will complete their new processing plant at Hereford in time for the 1964 crop. All growers work under a marketing agreement with the sugar refiners.

Plans Set For Clean-up

Plans are underway for another clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign for Canyon under the sponsorship of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce.

Members of Kappa Alpha Order fraternity on the WTSU campus will again do the clean up work beginning Tuesday, March 31. Anyone wishing yard work, painting or any other beautification work done should call OL 5-4564 to leave their name and address.

Although the fraternity will take calls and start working Tuesday, the actual dates for the campaign are April 6-11. Nominal fees will be charged for all jobs done by the fraternity members. The money will be used for fraternity projects.

On Tuesday and Saturday of the campaign week, fraternity members will use city trucks to haul off trash or items left in the alleys. The service will be provided free of charge, and anyone wishing anything to be hauled away should call the same number.

During the week, KA members will attempt to work the entire city door-to-door looking for any beautification or clean-up jobs.

Charlie Donnell, president of the chamber, and Mayor Delbert Lowes urge the cooperation of Canyon residents with the KA's.

Miss Toles Reigns As Top Homemaker

Martha Toles, Happy High School senior, has been named 1964 Texas Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow.

Miss Toles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Toles of Happy, will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills as the top homemaker of the year.

She ranked first among 23,503 senior girls in 864 Texas high schools.

Martha will compete with state Homemakers of Tomorrow from 49 states and the District of Columbia for the title of All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow. Determining factor in the choice will be her score on the original test, plus personal observation and interviews during an all-expense paid historical tour to Washington, D. C. and New York City.

The contestants will leave April 26, on the tour and will visit the World's Fair in New York and Colonial Williamsburg in Washington.

High point of the tour will be the American Table Dinner in New York when the All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow will be announced. The winner's scholarship will be increased to $5,000 with scholarships for second, third and fourth ranking girls being raised to $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 respectively. The tour ends May 1.

The school of each state homemaker will receive a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica, a gift from Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc.

Board Renews Webb Contract

Contract of Coach E. J. "Jeep" Webb has been renewed for another year by the board of trustees.

This announcement was made this week by School Supt. Huelyn Laycock. Webb is rounding out his fourth year as head football coach at Canyon High School.

Webb came here from Borger where he coached under Gene Mayfield. He is a product of West Texas State.

WTSU Gains Contract In Air Force Program

A contract for $15,444 has been awarded West Texas State University to participate in an experimental instructional program with the United States Air Force.

The program is to be conducted at Amarillo Air Force Base, according to Dr. Emmitt D. Smith, director of program development and research.

The program is being conducted to determine the effectiveness of five different teaching techniques, utilizing in four of the "learning situations" four different teaching machines.

Participating in the program, which is being supervised by Dr. Ed. A. Smith of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, are a group of selected students from the 3320th Retraining Group.

The project is being conducted by a senior investigator, who is Mrs. Wilma Jo Bush, assistant professor of education and psychology at WTSU, and an "on-site investigator," who is Mrs. Delores Gregg of Amarillo, a graduate student at WTSU.

Mrs. Bush devotes a fourth of her time to the project at Amarillo and supervises the activities of Mrs. Gregg and works cooperatively with the USAF contract monitor (Dr. Smith.).

"The study is exploratory to determine if there is a correlation between the methods and techniques of teaching and the different learning activities," Mrs. Bush said.

Four different automated teaching machines will be used in the program during the year of study, and through pre-testing and post-testing, the effectiveness of each of the government's instructional aids will be determined, Mrs. Bush said.

Students' success in learning with one technique will be measured against success in the use of another of the machines.

Two hypotheses are to be explored, Mrs. Bush said. These are:

1. There will be relationships between patterns of intellectual abilities (types of trainees) and patterns of learning.

2. There will be relationships between patterns of learning and patterns of scores (types of trainees obtained on standardized achievement tests.)

Approach to the solution of the hypotheses will be characterized by small group instructional organization for a period of one year; use of experimental material; use of pre-test and post-test; subjective observations by the on-site investigator and senior investigator; and establishment of close working relationship bet-

We'll be taking off a couple of days for some fishing at Lake Graham this weekend. Wit Witkowski just returned from there.

He says he caught plenty. They were bass, mostly, weighing up to 5 pounds.

Our luck has always been such that we arrive at a good fishing place just in time to hear stories about how they were hitting last week. We get back home just in time to get post cards from friends telling us how they began biting the day after we left.

Automation is the biggest problem facing industry and labor today.

To compete, industry must make full use of automation. This undoubtedly will result in even shorter working hours for labor.

Regardless of pay, shorter working hours means trouble ahead. The old proverb of all work and no play can be reversed and it will be just as applicable.

A man can't even get interested in his work if he applies himself to it only 25 or 30 hours a week.

We read where one MIT professor was quoted as saying that machines eventually would run the world.

He reasoned that machines capable of thinking would learn to replace and improve themselves on an assembly line basis. This, he said, would be the beginning of the end for flesh and blood.

Can't you just imagine boy and girl robots meeting up in a quaint little out of the way service station for a change of oil. They sip daintily with two straws from a gallon of aviation gasoline while a robot attendant checks their tubes and polishes their antennae.

Seriously, it won't be too long until the time margin will be cut so thin that of necessity we may have to leave the decision of peace or war up to computers...a sad day for the human race.

What will we do if our computers and robots are set to go into action under certain conditions and wage thermonuclear war until victory is achieved?

We are inclined to ask: "What folly hath man wrought?"

What ever happend to Spam, the concoction that kept a lot of us alive during World War II? Has it come back on the market under a new trade name? We'd be interested in finding out....not that we plan to stock our larder with it, however.

Amazing to us that politics are being talked so little in this election year. Two years ago the political pot was boiling at this season. People just do not seem interested anymore.

Hilltop Views

Perhaps the most evident fact about the world today is its revolutionary character. Mankind as a whole has never before in all history experienced such violent, far-reaching changes in ideologies, in ways of living, in forms of government, in human relations, and in all things that are related to man's happiness, as it has been experiencing for at least a quarter century; and no improvement is in sight.

In that period empires have fallen apart, colonialism has almost ceased to exist, the spirit of nationalism has taken root in the dark corners of the world, and a billion or more people have dreamed dreams of freedom.

A hundred new nations have been born and most of them have gained a voice in the direction of world affairs. Very few if any of them are competent to govern themselves, either as individuals or as nations. As of the present, about all they are able to contribute to world order is disorder. Naturally they are fodder for the asses of communism.

These conditions have created a world-wide spirit of unrest, dissatisfaction, fear, irritability, jealously, distruct, criticism, and pessimism, all of which are incompatible with free and stable government. They produce contempt for law and legally constituted authority, encourage and abet crime, and under-cut the foundations of civilized society.

Contradictory as it may seem this revolution with all its unseemly and anti-social evils is in no small measure a result of scientific discovery and invention and American humanitarianism. Speaking to this point from the pulpit of the First Christian Church of Hereford in 1952 this writer said: "Our own country, through its Christian Missions, its commercial and industrial expansion into the four corners of the earth, its conspicuous example in the benefits of free government, its work with the United Nations, and its official Point Four Program is consciously aiding and abetting such a revolution," as we now experience. ("One Man's Faith" by Joseph A. Hill, p. 299. Available at the Ex-Student Office, West Texas State.)

Complementing our own humane and Christian effort to serve the underpriviledged world is the fact that more than half the earth's population moves from birth to death in a state of hunger, nakedness, disease, and ignorance.

When we and others gave windows to the "dark continent and other dark places those benighted people began to look out at the rest of the world. Fresh air slowly filtered through the cracks in the walls that isolated and imprisoned them. Hope, faint at first, saw a star, and young men began to dream dreams of a freedom they had known not of. Some of them here and there and now and then sought knowledge of civilized life in western colleges and universities and went back to their native lands to light the torch for their benighted fellows.

But the leaven of civilization works slowly and very imperfectly. Illiterate people do not pass from darkness to light quickly nor without great suffering. The road to freedom leads through a forest of trials conflicts, tribulations, and strife. For example the Civil War broke the legal bonds of slavery, but a hundred years later, after all his contacts with Western civilization, the American Negro does not yet enjoy the equal right with Whites to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

In view of these facts is it any wonder that the young black nations of the earth should behave like spoiled brats? Hardly. The wonder is that so many Americans and others are behaving somewhat the same way. Apparently the gulf between savagery and civilization is gradually growing narrower - savagery becoming, it appears, a little less savage and civilization a little less civilized.

It reminds one of the Middle or Dark ages - the period between the fall of Rome and the Renaissance and the Reformation - the thousand years that it took the classic culture of Greece and Rome to absorb the vast hordes of barbarians that wrested control of the then world from deteriomated civilized hands.

To put it another way it took the barbarian hordes of the north, who had led Rome captive, a thousand years to prepare themselves for enlightened leadership in a distraught world. Out of this melee between savagery and civilization came Modern Man. "God works in mysterious ways His wonders to perform."

The Easter bunny is wiggling his ears in delirious anticipation of his "big day", and parents are out madly haunting the feed stores for last-minute brightly dyed baby chickens, ducks and rabbits.

Parents seem to have more fun picking out the small animals, deciding which color would be best for which child, and just what kind of furry friend is wanted in the house, than the children after they receive these Easter tokens.

We recall the one (and only) time our parents decided to try the Easter type animal gift. At the time we had one large overgrown collie dog, one mongrel dog and one large garage.

Beginning Easter Sunday we took in two baby ducks giving them all the love and attention possible from three uninhibited tom-boy girls.

The ducks were only a few days old when we first took them into our domain, and if they had been left in the care of our two dogs they would not have lived through the first evening.

But, during the first few days these ducklings resided in the Williams home, they were treated as special guests.

One of the ducklings could not stand the constant barking and growling from the envious canines, and died just two days after we had adopted him.

The second one however, had stamina for several duck friends, and evidently was determined to outlast the dogs.

George (as we named the small, confident animal) became the talk of the neighbor.. waddling down the middle of the street with his brownish peak moving constantly.

After several battles with the two oversized dogs, George was able to hold his own. He was able to dodge into corners no dog would think of venturing into.

The family learned to understand this quacking addition to the household, and we soon learned that George needed to be among his "own kind".

Friends offered to take our extra family member to a ranch near by, so he would have the opportunity to escape with other ducks.

We agreed, and George left the family fold. We knew he would soon fly away with the ducks which were heading south for the winter, so we made a point of driving to the ranch as often as possible.

We soon realized two things about George. Number one: George had become Christine.. she had little ducklings.

Number two: Christine was too accustomed to high-style living. She refused to fly south with her feathered friends. Instead she took up permanent residence with a local group of coherts...a tribe of pigs.

We never understood her tendencies in her later life, especially after her careful upbringing.

Dear Mr. Martin:

Thank you for your page one article of March 5 on Dr. Ferre, and your editorial of the same date.

You are doing a terrific job against tremendous odds, but with Christianity on your side, how can you lose?

Keep up the good work; there are plenty of us praying to God through Christ on your behalf.

Sincerely,
Frances Lee

Dear Editor:

Why has the Canyon News, the Amarillo papers & Jim Platt kept the two men from Amarillo names secret that were handing out literature on the campus:

They must be prominent men and belong to the Birchers or some other far right groupe. I think we are entitled to know who they are. Also the students I have talked to think so. Some students have told me if they have enough sense to get an education they have sense enough to listen to this minister & form their own opinion of what he says & that he should come here & speak, and all of them speak highly of Dr. Cornette, I am sure if the President of the US Chamber of Commerce came here to dam Lyndon Johnson, social security, REA, farm legislation, FHA and giving a tax cut to the low income it would be OK he said the tax cut should have been smaller for the low income & favored corporations, another good reason we have drifted to socialism & will continue to with such as him running over the country giving Johnson hell & the low income people and upholding the rich which beat the government on income taxes. Even Goldwater says the low wage earners have no way of beating taxes its taken our of your check & he says the rich can hire tax experts & beat the government & you can even by books on how to do it.

Yours truly,

Dear Editor:

Please allow me to quote from Major W. Ian Thomas' wonderful book, The Mystery of Godliness, pp. 72 and 73, concerning the importance of the virgin birth: (emphasis are Major Thomas')

"A theological student came to me not long ago and said that he had just had his first lecture on Luke's Gospel. The learned Professor had announced his subject at "The Virgin Birth of Jesus Christ-Neither True Nor Necessary!" To be as ignorant as that of the basic essentials of the Truth would be tragic enough in the simple minded, but to expose such ignorance in the name of scholarship to a class of students is Criminal Negligence, and a masterpiece of satanic genius of which only the devil himself could be capable!

"Deny the virgin birth of Jesus Christ, and you have laid the axe to all the essential doctrines of the Bible; the fall and depravity of man, the deity and sinlessness of Christ, the atoning efficacy of His death and resurrection, the necessity for spiritual regeneration as the basis for holiness of life, and the truth of the Bible itself! Little wonder that those who deny the virgin birth of Christ have little love for the Word of God; for the Truth exposes every lie for the lie it is, and every lie is a lie about the Truth!"

I trust in the virgin born, sinless Jesus Christ as portrayed in God's Holy Word for my eternal soul's destiny. To believe any conjecture contrary to the Word of God - by any man including Nels F. S. Ferre -can lead only to disaster.

To the Editor:

A stimulating experience was enjoyed by this region recently. Its embodiment was one Dr. Nels F. S. Ferre, theologian, and for four days guest speaker at West Texas State University. The interest and furore that resulted from his presence in our midst merits further contemplation by us all.

Dr. Ferre's message was like a flash of light shattering the darkness. His stature as a man was clearly evident to all who had the privilege of listening to him. A great scholar, yes, but of more importance was the sincerity and compassion that emanated from this man. He proved to be an inspiration to all who came with open minds and hearts.

It is unfortunate and tragic that some closed their ears to his wisdom and their hearts to his good will. The loss is theirs alone. To deny themselves or others the opportunity to listen to the philosophy of a great and dedicated man is intellectual dishonesty of the highest order. Or may I use stronger terms - hypocrisy, bigotry, and narrow-mindedness.

Do I unequivocally embrace Dr. Ferre's theology? This is quite beside the point. My greatest fear is that his chief adversaries were not opposing his particular views per se. They were opposing the right of anyone to come to this conservative fundamentalist hinterland and "rock the boat" by espousing viewpoints contrary to those generally held here. Any voice that presumes to "cry forth in the wilderness" is apparantly in mortal danger in these parts.

any glimmering of light from the outside may have their little short-lived dubious successes but the overwhelming forces of time and reason are against them. One seldom alters the thinking of such people but they are not here forever. Tolerance and reason will have their day.

In closing I must ask you: Where to now? To quickly forget the events of last week and garner nothing from the experience would be tragedy. Dear Editor:

One of the marks of these confused and complicated times is the growing concern for the definition of our national purpose: not only the might of a disciplined Soviet Union, but also a revulsion against the softness of a pleasure-loving and materialistic age, has stimulated a spirit of self-criticism on the part of many thoughtful Americans.

In a day when much writing is preoccupied with depravity, and when the great problems of human life and destiny are portrayed as if there were no Decalogue, no Sermon on the Mount, no Gospel of redeeming love, and no responsibility of the human soul to the living God, it is time for those of us who believe in certain enduring values on which America is built to lash out at those who threaten to pull down the foundations of Biblical Christianity.

The problems facing us are of a difficulty and complexity scarcely dreamed of sixty years ago. But the great virtues do not change. An authentic and living part of our American birthright lies in the kind of values-integrity, decency, high-mindedness, moral strength, purity of purpose - based upon an abiding faith in the Lord Jesus Christ according to the Scriptures.

We need lectures revolving around the "grand particularities of the faith." Without the historical foundation of revelation as an actual record of events, the Christian gospel has no power as a symbolic record of experience. We do not need doctrines "fashion'd to the varying hour." We must take our stand without mental reservation upon the Word of God as "the only infallible rule of faith and practice." There must be a preaching of the truth of the Incarnation, based not upon metaphysical speculation, but upon the historical fact of the Virgin Birth.

We must emphasize the doctrine of immortality, basing our belief not on the moral necessity of such a hope, but upon the bodily resurrection of Jesus Christ. In the light of these two doctrines, we need to lift high the cross of Christ in all its shame and all its glory. No one who has knelt as a penitent sinner at the foot of the cross will find anything in the "fountain filled with blood" to offend him, but much to thrill him. This needs to be followed with the other great themes of the Christian revelation: the sovereignty of God, His providence in personal life, and the grand and awful message of the final judgment and eternal redemption.

We are in a period of religious controversy when some are preaching "another gospel which is not another," using dishonest semantics to emasculate words of historic Biblical and redemption meaning. Let us attack the unconscious or unconfessed unitarianism, which has crept into the church as an enemy of Christ and of the Gospel. Against the immorality of infidelity and the cowardice of compromise within the church, let us make a straight-forward allegiance to the standards of faith and to the plain statements of the historical creeds. The Church cannot be built upon the shifting sands of reason nor upon the quicksands of feeling, but only upon the facts of objective revelation.

There are those within the Church who are tolerant of unbelief raising a counter-protest on the pretense of safeguarding the unity and liberty of the Church, straining at a gnat of supposed ecclesiastical irregularity while they gulp down without effort a whole camel of theological irregularity. They call for liberty to believe what they please, while vowing their acceptance of and loyalty to the Confession of Faith. This is simply anarchy founded upon unreality and dishonesty.

There is indeed a moral fault running through the character of the preacher who cannot accept the Virgin Birth without lying, and the church which tolerates such a preacher is in spiritual peril. There is an ungodly conceit which enthrones reason, and will not accept anything the reason does not approve; and there is a godly conceit which enthrones Christ and His Word, and will not receive anything which is contrary to them.

Jesus taught His disciples that they must be in the world but not of it. A Christian in the world is one thing, and the world in the Christian is quite another thing. The world has its own prince, its own court, its own council, its own laws, its own principles, its own maxims, its own literature. It is the counterfeit of the Church of God, and the devil's principal weapon for lowering and poisoning the heavenly life in the individual and in the Church, and for antagonizing and destroying the work of the Holy Spirit. It is in our pulpits, choirs, and pews. It is all the more seductive because it makes an exterior profession of Christianity and with infinite cleverness seeks to reconcile its own evil maxims with the doctrines of Christianity.

It is worthwhile to question ourselves with regard to our moral identification. Where do we stand with regard to Christ? If our life belies our lips; if we make an orthodox profession but live a heterodox life; if we trifle with what we ignorantly call little sins and allow them to have dominion over us; if we are cowardly and silent, and given to desertion as the Christ of God stands at the bar of public opinion; if we not only refuse to confess Him ourselves but hinder others from confessing Him - we morally identify ourselves with those who cried: "Away with him; not this man, but Barabbas!"

With the aforegoing statements in mind, I must question the "effect for good" the forthcoming speaker, Nels Ferre, will have upon the student body of West Texas University.

In his book, THE CHRISTIAN UNDERSTANDING OF GOD, pp 191 and 192, he casts doubts upon the very foundations of faith upon which our country was founded. He insinuates that Christ could be the illegitimate child of an illicit relationship between the Virgin Mary and a blond German soldier. This in effect advocates that God is the author of Sin because no other one in history has been endued with the powers from God that Jesus had.

This to me is blasphemy, and I for one wish to be put on record as opposing Nels Ferre being allowed to bring this series of lectures.

May God cause many more to take a firm stand on this issue and let these students and all others who desire to know that we are not in accord with anything that makes the Gospel of Jesus Christ of none effect.

In reading all the news in The Canyon News of today, it seems to this writer that Colleges and Universities, supported by American Taxpayers, should teach AMERICANISM, and if Lecturers on Atheism or foreign types of Government come to town, they should hire their OWN HALL!! Miss Claudia DeZane McFarland became the bride of Bill Dean Brown in a double ring wedding ceremony which was performed on Monday evening, March 16, at Windy Acres, the country home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gwen Ernest McFarland.

G. M. Covington, Church of Christ minister of Tulia, officiated at the nuptial ceremony which united Miss McFarland and the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Brown of Lubbock in marriage.

The curving stairway was decorated with urns of yellow and white gladioli on white pedestals.

As the bride ascended the stairway, escorted by her father, she was attired in a street length suit of white silk with a waist length jacket featuring elbow length sleeves. Self covered buttons and a narrow rounded collar complemented the ensemble. Her shoulder length veil of silk illusion was attached to a small pillbox hat of white silk.

Paul Hild Conducts 5 Programs

Paul Hild, musical evangelist from Minneapolis, Minnesota, arrived in Canyon Wednesday evening for five special programs of the Easter Victory Crusade at the Assembly of God Church.

Mr. Hild has been an evangelist since the age of 17 and will highlight his programs with colored pictures and music with rainbow lighting effects. Aside from being a featured speaker, he plays the saxaphone and will present an illustrated musical program, "Wayside Cross" at the Friday evening program, 7:30 o'clock.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

All of Section 167, Block 2, A. B. & M. Survey, Potter County, Texas, Save and Except the following tracts:

TRACT ONE: 4.35 acres out of said section conveyed by the City of Amarillo Enterprises, Inc., by deed dated February 4th, 1963 and filed on February 5, 1960 in Volume 859, Page 327 of the Deed Records of Potter County, Texas.

TRACT TWO: 0.282 acres out of said section conveyed by J.L. Nunn to Amarillo Oil Company by deed dated March 21st, 1949, and filed on March 29, 1949 in Volume 464, Page 559, of the Deed Records of Potter County, Texas, leaving to be conveyed 635.368 acres, more or less.

which said lands are owned by the City of Amarillo and all or portions of which are used as public park, and that the City Commission of the City of Amarillo, Texas, has further determined that leasing said lands for investigation, exploration, prospecting for, drilling and mining for the production of oil and gas is not inconsistent with the public use now being made of such lands, provided that the use of a portion of the surface of said land for said mineral operating purposes is limited and restricted to a small portion or small portions thereof which may from time to time be designated by the City Commission of the City of Amarillo, and

Notice is further given that the City Commission of the City of Amarillo intends to lease said lands for oil and gas purposes and the said City Commission has designated 11:00 o'clock a.m. on the 7th day of April, 1964, as the time and City Commission Room, Municipal Auditorium as the place where said City Commission will receive and consider bids for such oil and gas leases as it may determine to make. Commissioners accepted a completion letter from contractors of the metal shop building recently completed. They authorized payment of $7,524.21 to A & S Steel Buildings, Inc. for construction of the building.

The Monday night meeting was a public hearing on the proposed budget for the fiscal year of 1964-65. No taxpayers appeared at the meeting to view the budget.

Plans to place a fire plug in the 2600 block of Twelfth Avenue were discussed. In a previous meeting, commissioners decided to place a temporary plug in the alley near a new nursing and convalescent home in that block.

Jack Jennings, Canyon volunteer fire marshall, requested the plug be put on pavement in easy access for the large fire trucks.

Bryant was instructed to see if a six-inch water line, presently in the alley, can be extended to the end of Twelfth Avenue and the plug can be set over it at the end of the street.

At this position the plug will be closer to the home and will also be on pavement.

commission set the insurance rate at $20,000 for a cab service in the size town of Canyon.

A letter from the United Church Women of Canyon requesting commissioners to keep the insurance requirement at a minimum was read by Lowes to the commissioners.

Taylor will have to pay two per cent franchise tax on his taxi cab service to the city.

A rate schedule for insurance will be proposed and discussed further at the next regular meeting of the commission.

"Money raised during our annual fund-raising campaign will be used to help local people during a time of disaster or personal need.

"The swimming lessons program being planned for this summer is an excellent one for local youngsters, but to finance it we must have the help of people in the community.

"We want to offer people in Canyon better Red Cross programs, and the way to start is to have an active Red Cross chapter," LaGrone said.

COC Quits Commission Planning

Canyon Chamber of Commerce Monday night voted to resign as the city planning commission.

Charles Donnell, president, submitted the resignation to the city commission Tuesday in a formal letter.

Donnell pointed out that it was the feeling of the Chamber board that the city commission should appoint a separate planning commission. He said the board feels that it shoud not enter into planning that might result in a controversy.

The Chamber board heard routine committed reports at its Monday night meeting.

Mrs. Murphy White of the Library Board said the money to that group could not be allocated until the next board meeting next month. She said, however, she thought the money would probably be placed in a savings account to draw interest until a definite purpose could be decided on.

County Agent's Column

On March 11, Randall County was declared a modified certified brucellosis free area. Cattle owners have been working toward this goal for several months. A certificate showing this county status was received this week in the County Agents Office. It Reads "This is to certify that Randall County has been declared a Modified Certified Brucellosis Area by virtue of the fact that Brucellosis has been reduced to not more than one percent of the cattle in not to exceed five percent of the herds as indicated by the official testing and other approved procedures conducted under the cooperative State-Federal program". This certificate is valid for the period of March 11, 1964 to March 4, 1967.

A record of 82 consecutive days without an authentic report of a screwworm infestation having been reported was ended on March 12, when a case was confirmed near Linn in Hidalgo County. This was probably the longest screwworm-free period in the recorded history of the Southwest.

On Jan. 1, 1964, there were 478 thousand head of cattle on feed in Texas. This was 6% above year earlier level. The March 1 report shows 391 thousand cattle and calves on feed in the state.

Randall County farmers submitted 46 soil samples to the Extension Service Soils Lab for analysis during the months of January and February, 1964. This brings our total to more than one hundred samples taken for analysis and fertilizer recommendations in preparation for the 1964 crop.

April is a choice month for planting trees and shrubs in the Canyon area. Many nurserymen prefer this time of the year to do their planting. By this time some of the dry cold winds of March have passed and the lush spring growth has not started. Homeowners might do well to follow the lead of this experience.

If weeds are numerous in the wheat fields now is the time to control them. Tansy mustard, a winter and spring annual weed can reduce wheat yields if they are allowed to mature. The 2-4-D herbicide will do a good job now when properly applied at the 1/2 lb. per acre rate. But remember that wind velocity above 5 miles per hour, will interfere with the spray pattern and might cause serious damage to adjacent susceptible crops. Always use this herbicide with caution.

Chamber Of Commerce Corner

BY CHARLES DONNELL

We are approaching the tourist season, and at this time we would like to emphasize the fact that one of our natural resources and greatest assets is our Tourist Industry.

According to the United States Department of Commerce, "The fastest, most effective way to attract industry is by first attracting tourists. Both industry and tourists are looking for change and improvement in living conditions, transportation facilities and a wide range of cultural and recreational activities."

Canyon is the center for the recreational playground of the Texas Panhandle because of two natural resources, Palo Duro Canyon State Park and Buffalo Lake. Many who live here do not realize that these attractions mean to us by number each year of tourists visiting this area and using the facilities of these playgrounds.

The Palo Duro State Park is located 11 miles east of Canyon on Highway 217. It has natural scenery seldom found in the plains area. Many are amazed to find such scenery close to a flat and level prairie. The Park comprises 15,103 acres with an entire length of approximately 120 miles. The widest point being approximately 20 miles and the devation drop being close to 1200 feet. Many interesting formations and popular concessions are enjoyed by those visiting. Drinking water, restrooms and hot showers are available for overnight campers and those visiting the park. Palo Duro Canyon is a photographer's heaven. Over 160,000 people visited last year and all 50 states and many foreign countries were represented. Another improvement in Park Facilities now underway is the outdoor ampitheatre, a project of the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation.

Buffalo Lake is 12 miles west of Canyon and under the supervision of the fish and wildlife service of the Department of Interior. It is the largest body of water, at the present time, in the Texas Panhandle. Last year over 333,000 people visited this lake. It offers boating, water skiing, picnicking, fishing, camping, wildlife study and outdoor recreational opportunities for the entire panhandle. Visitors from over 40 states enjoyed the facilities of Buffalo Lake. It is also a major refuge for migratory waterfowl and millions of these fowl use it as a resting place during migration. Duck and goose hunting is a major winter sport and Randall County and rates 10th in Texas in number of Canadian geese killed each year.

Another tourist attraction is the Plains Historical Museum located on the campus of West Texas State University in Canyon. It is not a natural resource but has a natural connection with the history of the Southwestern Great Plains. The museum contains artifacts of the plains area in a most complete form. It has sections of art, geology, anthropology, literature, history and it is an attraction and educational center for a vast area. It is estimated that 120,000 actually visited the museum last year. 50 states and 46 foreign countries were represented.

The Canyon Chamber of Commerce is urging the citizens of our area to help us sell these attractions to all visitors and urge others to come to see and enjoy these facilities. Figures from the United States Chamber of Commerce show that the amount of money spent by tourist each year in the nation is more than twice the retail value of every automobile manufactured. The average annual expenditure per family for vacation travel in the United States is an astounding $400.00

Travel and outdoor recreation is a business that is on the sharpest rise of any type of business in the U.S. This may not be your line but the tourist industry is one of our natural resources and offers opportunity to many in making a living. What helps others will indirectly help you also. We need money and help in advertising and selling this industry which means much to our community. Let's all sell others on what we have to offer; because we are the center of the Recreational area of the great Plains area.

I will close with this thought: IT IS STILL TRUE THAT THE HARDEST JOB IN THE WORLD FOR AN ENERGETIC PERSON TO DO, IS TO DO NOTHING.

Dunn was the only person from the Panhandle to attend.

New Patrolmen Assigned Here

Robert has just completed highway patrol training school and this is his first assignment. He is from Post.

Bill Clifton is moving here from Dimmitt. He is from Olney.

Billy Bible Introduced At Meeting

UNIVERSITY CHORALE

Grand Opening Sunday For Nursing-Convalescent Home

Doors to Canyon's first nursing and convalescent home will swing open Sunday in open house ceremonies for the general public.

The Easter Sunday grand opening of LaCasa Canyon Nursing and Convalescent Home will conclude six months of construction on the 36-bed brick home.

Don York, owner and manager, and his full staff will guide visitors through the spacious building from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday.

Accommodations will include private, semi-private and multiple-bed rooms for men and women, in addition to a large living room and complete kitchen facilities.

Visitors to the home will enjoy the relaxed atmosphere offered at LaCasa Canyon, located at 2623 Twelfth Avenue in Canyon.

A large parking area in front of the building will run the length of the structure. A driveway on the west end will provide easy access at the side door for the entrance and removal of patients.

Large monument steps lead the way to the front entrance and into a glassed-in hallway. A reception desk in the foyer will be the first stopping place for visitors wishing to see patients in the home.

A three-foot brick flower box divides the hall from the spacious living room. The lounging area is furnished with two sofas and four lounging chairs with a large, easily-viewed television set.

A nurses' station in mahogany wood is located in the center of the building between two long hallways. On-duty nurses will be kept informed of patient's needs through a special lighing system at the desk.

A light switch next to each bed in all rooms is connected to a small light in the hall as well as a light at the nurses desk. Each bathroom is equipped with an emergency button which is connected to the nurses' station also.

A licensed nurse will be available 24-hours each day, and eight nurses aides will be on duty throughout each day and night.

All medications will be prepared at the nurses' station with special needs and preparations for each patient listed on separate containers.

A 42 by 56 foot dining area directly behind the living room, is furnished with hardrock maple harvest tables and hardrock maple captain chairs. Three cooks will prepare the daily meals, and bedfast patients will be served in their rooms.

A modern kitchen with the latest cooking facilities makes food preparation easy and quick for the cooks. Four freezers and a large refrigerator keeps food in excellent condition for immediate preparation.

Three stainless steel sinks are located on the east wall of the room in easy reach of other kitchen appliances.

Mrs. Don York designed the kitchen pantry where canned goods and fresh vegetables are stored along with necessary utensils.

"Mrs. York planned and designed every storage room in the building and the pantry. She made them large and very serviceable," York explained.

Bedrooms and baths complete the tour of the home which will be open for patients Monday.

Two hallways are lined with the sleeping quarters for those in the nursing and convalescent home. Men patients will lodge in one end of the building and women will be cared for in the east end of the home.

Each wing has one ward room which will accommodate four persons with separate closets for each patient. Built-in lockers and separate chests and night stands will complete the furnishings surrounding the comfortable beds.

Six semi-private rooms are on each wing with a half-bath connecting each of the rooms. Two persons will share the two closets and the built-in cabinets in each room.

A private room on each wing will complete the living quarters for the home. The single rooms will be furnished with twin or double beds depending on the patient. A married couple may live in the single room and share the full private bath.

All rooms are furnished with mahogany night stands, chests and dresser accented with table lamps and wall lights over each bed.

Curtains in each room are made of soft colored fiberglass.

One outstanding feature designed by York for safety and convenience are push-out windows in the bedrooms.

"The middle sash of the 4 by 5 foot windows in each room, will push outward in case of a fire or emergency. The windows are large enough to get a patient through if need be. A nurse has only to hit the middle sash hard and the window will fall out," York explained.

Another special feature of the home will be a medical examination room for doctors seeing patients in the building. Aside from the medical table, the room is equipped with a special sink for hair washing and setting.

"In many homes the patients like to have their hair done, and the nurses and aides will be able to wash and set hair without the patient leaving her chair," York said.

One large bath is on each wing with doors extra wide for wheelchairs to pass through. A special shower stall is in each bathroom so patients can take showers without leaving the wheelchair.

Those desiring baths will have a bathtub with a convenient handrail over the tub.

Lining both sides of the hallways are handrails for the patients.

"These handrails are excellent therapy for the patients. They are able to use them and walk, where they wouldn't be able to without the rails," the manager said.

The building has two central heating and airconditioning units which will service the entire structure.

"Both systems are separate, but each is strong enough to heat or cool both ends of the building if one fails, York continued.

A linen closet housing sheets, pillow cases and bedspreads for each room, is located in easy reach of the nurses, and a dirty linen room is in a separate unit.

Easter Sunday will take on added meaning of joy and comfort for those interested in Canyon's nursing and convalescent home.

From the beautiful brick decor on the outside to the soft pastel colors used in each room, LaCasa Canyon offers the latest in comfort and style for Canyon's senior citizens.

Reds Win In First Buff Intersquad Scrimmage

West Texas State University Buffalo football squad went through it's first heavy duty scrimmage session last Saturday at Buffalo Bowl under the watchful eyes of head coach Joe Kerbel and his staff.

The scrimmage contained the usual number of fumbles, missed assignments and the like. However, Kerbel and the staff were fairly well impressed with the hitting and execution of some of the members of the varsity squad.

"The boys put out all the way," said Kerbel. "We were quite pleased with the overall effort put forth by the team. Oh sure, there were too many mistakes, but we had a chance to look at our returning lettermen and the new varsity members and were happy with what we saw".

Many of the veterans, few in number as they are, showed well known knowledge of the intricate offensive and defensive patterns used by Kerbel. Some of the newer lads had difficulty with their assignments, but both groups were hitting hard all the way.

"That center, Bill Uzzolino, really got in some good licks," Kerbel said. "He and fullback Russell Mundy got to know each other quite well before the afternoon was over." Uzzolino was the one most responsible for holding the big Buff fullback to only 28 yards in 10 carries. And this is quite an accomplishment in itself as Mundy has been running with wild abandon all week much to the delight of the coaching staff.

Most of the squad performed well as the Whites went into an early 6-0 lead before the Red team got untracked and raced to a 45-12 win over the Whites. On the Red squad were members of the first, fourth and sixth units. The Whites were made up of the second, third and fifth teams. However, squad designation for last Saturday does not mean these boys will remain on that unit long. Kerbel is moving each team member around from unit to unit so he can take a good look at every man trying to nail down one of the many open positions. The teams played ten 8 minute quarters.

Shining at the quarterback slot was Wayne Fox, listed as a member of the sixth string when the days action started. Wayne played on the WT frosh team two years ago but had to sit out the '63 season due to a back injury. He has come out this season with the idea in mind to make up for lost time. He ran for 63 yards in 10 carries for the Red team on the option play and passed for 66 more yards and two scores to halfback Jerry Elmore on 4 completions of 12 attempts. He had one toss intercepted. Leading the Red ball carriers was halfback Dennis Flanagan. Dennis, a senior from Garden Grove, California, turned the corner many times and picked up 69 yards in 6 carries.

The effectiveness of the Red defense was evident as James Cowell, Dimmitt freshman, led the White ball toters with only 26 yards in 5 attempts. David Fleming, Pasadena freshman, passed for 25 yards on 3 hits of 6 aerial attempts for the White squad.

Newcomers who stood out were halfbacks Gene Browning, Don Dennis, Tom Krempasky and Donnie Walton, fullbacks Cowell and Bill Young, and quarterback Barry Johncour. In the line, ends Art Reed, Howard Marshall and Doug Kriewald caught the eye of end coach Jack Harris. Tackle coach Clarence Dierking cited seniors Wilton Manley and Bobby Walton, junior George Allen and freshman Bobby Duncum. In the middle of the line, guard and center coach Billy Willingham spoke well of the performances of centers Charley Daves, Doc Rowell and Uzzolino. Guards Vernon Kosub, Terry Funk and newcomer Donnie George played well also.

The next Buff scrimmage session will be held Saturday, April 4. Coach Kerbel hopes the entire squad will develop a great deal before that time comes. Next weekend will be a rest period for the Buffs as they take off for an Easter breather.

Spring practice will culminate Friday, April 10 under the lights of Buffalo Bowl in the Third Annual Alumni Game.

Volleyball Team Plays In Games

Canyon High School's girls volleyball team will participate next week in a tournament at Wayland Baptist College in Plainview.

Coach Allen Simpson will take 12 girls--enough for two teams--to compete with from 16 to 18 other teams expected to be in the tournament. He said it was not yet definite which days the Canyon girls would play, but it probably would be on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. They will drive back and forth to the tournament.

So far this year, the team has had some hard going. In their first match, they lost two games to one against Happy. They played Tulia this week and lost all three games of the match.

The girls who will be participating in Plainview will be Jan and Jill Jarnigan, Cynthia Gerald, Beth Jarrett, Andy Lair, Ruth Purcell (the starting six) and Sherry Killingsworth, Sally Swasgell, Linda Clark, Linda Gill, Becky Price and Carole Brown.

In other business Tuesday, the members appointed a committee to select a speaker for the All-Sports Banquet to be held in April. Jack Swatzell, Bob Bellah, Richardson, Allen Simpson, and E. J. Webb will work out details for getting a speaker for the affair.

Booster Club will finance the speaker for the annual banquet.

He has served for 14 of the last 15 years on visiting evaluation committees for the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Mrs. Newton Starnes Lists Fruit Pudding

Mrs. Newton Starnes, mother of three active school-age youngsters, is shown preparing Fruit Pudding for her family. The recipe she shares with our readers this week is one of many family favorites that has been baked by Mrs. Starnes.

BY LORENA MILLER

Mrs. Newton Starnes, mother of three school youngsters, shares a family favorite, Fruit Pudding, with our readers this week.

Mrs. Starnes, the former Alice Dvirnak of Killdeer, North Dakota, is now a 'naturalized' Texan. She has made Texas her home since her marriage to Rev. Starnes, Dec. 18, 1946.

Raised on a ranch, Mrs. Starnes attended Dickinson State College in North Dakota receiving a teacher's certificate and then taught elementary school students for a year. She then volunteered for duty with the Waves, women's naval corp., where she taught navigation for a period of two years at Pensacola, Florida.

She has five brothers, 3 living in North Dakota, one in Oregon and one in Wisconsin, who is a Baptist minister. Her two sisters are living in North Dakota and Denver, Colorado.

While serving with the Waves in Pensacola, the former Miss Alice Dvirnak, met Rev. Starnes who was serving as a Navy chaplain at the time. During his four year tour of duty with the Navy, Rev. Starnes served two years in the South Pacific and one year in Cuba. He is currently with the Naval ready reserves.

Rev. Starnes, who was raised at Winona, Texas near Tyler, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Starnes. He has two sisters, Mrs. Dow Graham of Winona and Mrs. Cecil Edwards of Spring Hill, Louisiana.

Following high school graduation, Rev. Starnes attended a junior college in Jacksonville, Texas; Southwestern University in Georgetown, Texas, and Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methdosit University in Dallas. He served pastorates at Big Spring and Pampa prior to being commissioned with the Navy.

At the time of their marriage, Rev. Starnes was the pastor of Oklahoma Lane Methodist Church. The Starnes and their three children, Charles, Mary and Elizabeth Ann, moved to Canyon in 1960 to accept the pastorate of the First Methodist Church.

Their home, 2107 3rd Avenue, is the Methodist Church parsonage and has been decorated and highlighted with accents from the Starnes own collection of personal items including a set of mahogany hand rubbed and carved plates from Haiti. One of the unusual items noted in the spacious home is a candleholder Williamsburg momento, from a trip to the Atlantic seaboard.

Nora Schwabe, an exchange student from Germany, is remembered on the decorative livingroom bookshelf with two original German dolls which she sent to the Starnes' daughters. Miss Schwabe resided with the Starnes family while they were living in Stamford, Texas, immediately before arriving in Canyon.

Artistic paintings of scenic landscapes decorate the Starnes home. The paintings were made by their son, Charles Newton, Jr., during his art classes last year.

He is a sophomore in Canyon High School this year and is very interested in dramatic productions at the school. He has played roles in several one act plays and was in "Calamity Jane," the all-school musical presented earlier this spring. Last summer he played a role in "Annie Get Your Gun", during the summer speech workshop conducted at West Texas State University.

Charles is also a member of the Explorer Scouts of Post 31, and is interested in music. He presently takes piano lessons from Mrs. Herschell Coffee, as does his sister, Mary.

Mary, an eighth grade student at Canyon Junior High, competed in the spring piano festival with sightreading and memory presentations on the piano. She is also active in her school work and takes part in a number of additional projects including the Future Homemakers of America, a member of the choir, and takes part in the Rainbow Girls.

She also likes sports and plays basketball, volleyball and other athletic events sponsored by the school. Her sister, Elizabeth Ann, is a fifth grade student who especially likes roller skating.

Elizabeth Ann participates in Girl Scouting, likes to go on visits with her father, and is taking piano lessons from Mrs. Ray McReynolds.

"All of my children are good in their school work," commented Mrs. Starnes as she noted a still life painting of a vase and flowers which was made by her daughter, Mary. The painting, of unusual dimensions, will require a special frame since store bought frames will not accommodate the picture and its mat border.

"She did it with crayola paint," said Mrs. Starnes describing the distinct artwork of the still life painting.

"I like to sew, and do quite a bit of sewing with two daughters," commented Mrs. Starnes. She also enjoys a quite afternoon of reading and likes to garden in the flower beds which are located around the home.

Zoro, a spaniel, is another member of the Starnes household. He has been the family pet for three years.

Mrs. Starnes is active in church work with assistance to the Woman's Society of Christian Service, as a Sunday School teacher, and a choir member.

"I don't cook very many desserts ahead for the freezer," said Mrs. Starnes. This week she shares a recipe for Fruit Pudding with our readers.

FRUIT PUDDING

Combine:

1 cup flour
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. baking powder

Then cut in 2 Tbsp. butter into dry ingredients, add 1/2 cup of milk and beat well.

Melt 1/2 cup butter or oleo in a 9 inch square pan. Spread the batter over melted oleo and pour in one can of hot sweetened cherries with juice over the batter. (Other fruits may be used.)

Organizations Have Supper

A supper social for members of the Young Homemakers and Young Farmers Organizations was held recently with ten couples attending a supper at Batson's Dining Room in Amarillo.

Following the supper, the group returned to the agriculture department at Canyon High School for their evening social of dominoe games, 42, and cards.

Chevrolet will go to any length to make you happy

Things have changed a lot since a Chevy was only a Chevy. Especially your ideas of what you want a Chevy to be.

So now you have the Jet-smooth Chevrolet—17½ feet of pure luxury, bumper to bumper. The size makes it a luxury car. But not the price.

Or you can choose the thrifty Chevy II, a 15¼-foot family car with all kinds of passenger and luggage space.

This year, your choice might be the new 16-foot-plus Chevelle, sized to fit nicely between Chevrolet and Chevy II (and between parking meters, with five whole feet left over).

Then, too, there's the sporty 15-foot Corvair, so right for so many people (you girls, in particular) that we've never touched an inch of it. And finally, Corvette—still 14½ feet and still too much for any true sports-car lover to say no to.

The long and short of it is, you don't have to go to any length to find exactly the kind of car you want. Just see the five different lines of cars at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Pioneer Woman Owned Canyon Doll Hospital

BY ANN DUNCAN

Dolls have a certain magical charm and appeal for both men and women, and their fascination knows no age limit.

For 11 years, Mrs. Carl Smith, 2008 Ninth Avenue, operated the Smith Doll Hospital here in Canyon. After selling the doll hospital, however, she turned her fondness for dolls into a rewarding and interesting hobby: making dolls out of apples, pears, wax, and even wishbones.

Most of Mrs. Smith's dolls would bring back fond memories of childhood for many--the apple dolls. Looking into her showcase reveals "Liberace" seated at his grand piano (also made by Mrs. Smith), "Brother George" standing nearby with his violin, and Mrs. Smith's favorites--the mountaineers.

The biggest problem in making apple dolls," Mrs. Smith said, "is selecting the right size apple. If the apples aren't large enough, they turn out to be too small after they're dry."

To make these dolls, Mrs. Smith first peels the apple, and carves the features for the face. Map tacks or tiny pearls are inserted in the eye slits, and the head is hung in a warm, airy place to dry. "I let them dry about two weeks," she said, "but I have to keep a fairly close watch on them because the eyes will sometimes pop out."

When the heads are dry, Mrs. Smith tints them with doll enamel or shellac, fastens a wig or hair piece on, and attaches them to the proper body. "Some of the hair pieces I use are doll wigs left from the doll hospital stock, and some of my neighbors bring their hair combings or cuttings for me to use."

The bodies of the apple dolls are fashioned of wire and then wrapped with cloth. The hands usually have five fingers, and are painted. "The dolls all have fingers except the ones I made in a hurry," she answered. "Each finger is wrapped separately, and it takes longer to do."

Mrs. Smith makes all the clothes for the dolls, and puts in a lot of details which make them seem more life-like. "Liberace's" famous smile consists of tiny white beads, and his jacket is complete with tails.

She made his piano out of a small hat tin, and has put a miniature candelabrum, records, and record albums on top. The mountaineer's overalls are stitched like their large counterparts, and even have a handkerchief tucked in the back pocket. The girl dolls have combs in their hair, earrings in their ears, and one even has a gold ring on the third finger, left hand.

"I also make some doll heads out of pears," Mrs. Smith said. "I peel, carve, and dry them like the apples, but when they're dry I put varnish on them, and they look exactly like brown-skinned natives."

The smallest dolls in the collection are the wishbone dolls made from turkey and chicken wishbones. The bone forms the legs and the torso, and wrapped wire serves as arms. For the head, Mrs. Smith covers a wad of cotton with cloth and dips it several times in melted wax. The hands and feet are formed by several wax baths also. To make Negro children, a brown crayola is melted into the white wax.

The clothes for these are also made by Mrs. Smith. Most are dressed cowboy style, complete with western hats and chaps decorated with tiny stars.

One of Mrs. Smith's dolls was made from an Irish potato. She peeled and carved the head, hands, and feet, and soaked them in formaldehyde overnight to make them hard. "I let them dry about a week," Mrs. Smith said, "but I put them outside on the clothesline. The smell was just too much."

Perhaps the most eye-catching dolls in the collection are the ones with wax heads, for they are strikingly life-like. These are the only dolls not made entirely by Mrs. Smith. "My son, Carl J. makes the heads, hands, and feet for these," she said. "He teaches art at one of the grade schools in Portales, New Mexico, and he graduated from West Texas State, I'm proud to say."

Mrs. Smith explained that he first molds the hands and heads in clay, and then makes a plaster of paris mold from them. Melted wax is poured into the moulds, and the head is ready for painting. "He uses white crayolas in this wax to give the head and hands a more life-like color."

"Carl paints the faces," Mrs. Smith said, "and he uses pearls for the eyes, and feathers for the eyebrows and eyelashes." She has three dolls for which her son has molded the heads--a grandmother, a grandfather and a young girl. Mrs. Smith also dressed these, and even fashioned eye-glasses for them to wear. "Carl put the wedding band on the grandmother," she said, "and a person can almost tell he's not married by looking at the doll. He put the ring on the right hand."

Mrs. Smith makes the bodies for these dolls out of cloth and stuffs the body forms with other cloth. The feet are ceramic and are made by her son.

Two ceramic dolls are also in her showcase. "I ordered the head, hands, and feet for these, but I made the cloth bodies and dressed them," she said. "One of them is a boy doll, which one doesn't often see even now."

When asked how she first became interested in dolls, Mrs. Smith answered, "I have made dolls all my life; in fact, I can't remember when I wasn't making some kind of doll. When I was a child, I made dolls out of cotton bolls and corn cobs. And we had paper dolls, too, but we called them paper folk. I didn't like to just cut them out of magazines, I used plain paper. I made clothes, too, out of paper and cloth."

This pioneer woman was born January 20, 1893, in Cooke County, Texas. Her parents were William and Nancy McCune, and she lived in Cooke County until she was nearly 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married in Tulia July 9, 1911, and they lived near there on a farm for several years. Mrs. Smith says they moved several times in the years following, and came to Canyon in 1947.

The Smiths had 10 children including a set of twins, a boy and a girl.

"One baby is always cute," Mrs. Smith said, "but twins are twice as cute. They always gave me the most trouble," she recalled, "everytime they started to crawl across the floor, they went in two different directions."

There were six sons and four daughters in the Smith family, and three of the sons received degrees from West Texas State.

Mrs. Smith opened her doll hospital the same year her family moved to Canyon, nearly 16 years ago. She operated the hospital for about 11 years, and then sold her business to a woman.

The idea of opening the doll hospital came from an article in a magazine. Also, Mrs. Smith had always disliked seeing an injured doll even as a child, and had always quickly repaired any she found.

"I liked to read hobby magazines," she said, "and I read about a man who set up a doll repair business using his fathers dental tools. He even had beds for the dolls in his hospital."

"I never took any lessons to learn how to repair dolls, I just read articles in the Toy Trader and Hobbies magazines."

Mrs. Smith reported that she had many interesting experiences while operating the doll hospital. "I fixed all kinds of dolls," she replied. "Some of the dolls were the kind that shook when laid down. They had a spring inside that made them move."

Surprisingly, men sometimes brought dolls to be repaired. "Some men brought dolls they had played with as children to be repaired," she said. "Some were as old as 75 years, and I repaired one doll that had a tin head."

"I remember one man who brought me a doll's head, but never returned for it. I had several women guests in my home when he came, and I suppose he was so embarrassed that he forgot to tell me to keep it. He had found it and thought that I might could use it."

"I don't have too many dolls now," Mrs. Smith said. "I have 29 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren, and I give most of the dolls I make to them."

"Of my ten children, Carl is the only one who helps me with the dolls. The others just look at them, and of course I give them dolls for gifts."

Mrs. Smith not only makes dolls, but also has other hobbies which keep her busy. "I let my husband help me with one," she answered. "We put glaze putty over plastic bottles and decorate them with shells, buttons, and just about anything else we find around the house."

Mrs. Smith is never at a loss for something to do. She replied, "I'm saving seeds now to make another decorated bottle."

Mrs. Carl W. Smith, 2008 Ninth Avenue, is pictured above with part of her apple head dolls which she makes and dresses as a hobby. Mrs. Smith owned a doll hospital for 11 years in Canyon.

Girl Scout Council Plans Local Summer Day Camp

A meeting of the Girl Scout Council was held last Thursday morning with Mrs. Charles Nester, council president, in charge of the business session.

Council members discussed the summer day camp which will be held in early summer. Definite plans for the summer day camp were not made, it will be set at a later council meeting and plans are currently in progress to eliminate the possibility of day camp co-inciding with summer vacation Bible schools.

A day camp site was not selected at the meeting, however, Mrs. Alfred Daniel, council representative, reports that the council is currently seeking a site to hold the day camp.

Also included in the meeting was a report on the recent cookie sales campaign by Mrs. Dean Nicholas, chairman of sales. She reported that the cookie sales broke previous records with a total of 5,232 boxes sold.

The cookies will be delivered in early April with about $1,300 remaining in the local council treasury for upkeep on the Girl Scout building, funds for the day camp, and possibly for the building fund for a new Girl Scout Clubhouse.

At the council meeting, members discussed the Thursday night meeting of local clubs for disbursement of the Community Center funds. Several council members attended the disbursement meeting and report that a decision was made to give about $800.00 to the Girl Scout building fund.

Mrs. Alfred Daniel, council representative reports, that the building fund is off to a good start and the $800. boost will bring a new scout house to Canyon a lot sooner.

The council currently has the Girl Scout House and an adjacent storage building for sale. The new clubhouse will be constructed on the present site and will be available for use by men's civic clubs for luncheons and ladies clubs, as long as they do not interfere with scouting activities.

21 Canyon Scouts To Attend Jamboree

July will be a summer highlight for 21 Canyon Scouts who are planning to attend the sixth National Jamboree for Boy Scouts of America at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

The national jamboree for over 50,000 scouts will be the culmination for a nationwide "Strengthen America's Heritage" program which will be conducted through June and July according to O. W. Parker, district chairman for the Randall District of Boy Scouts.

Mr. Parker announced last Friday that local Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Explorer Posts will take part in the nationwide program which is designed to make boys in Scouting and their community more aware of their American heritage.

Co-sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America and the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa., the program will conclude with a celebration of Heritage Day with special campfire programs planned nationwide. Scouts who do not attend the national jamboree will have their own campfires in Canyon with their parents and guests invited according to Parker.

Lee Roy Moreland, assistant scoutmaster of Troop 66 which is sponsored by the First Christian Church, will attend the Jamboree as one of the leaders of the local council. Seventy-two boys from nine counties served by the Llano Estacado Council will be attending the national jamboree along with the following Canyon boys, Bruce Shell, Randy Warren, Ricky Warren, Stoney Ormsby, Mark Raillard, Mike Waugh, Andy Sherrod, Clifford Sherrod, Eugene Bonds, John Warren, Mike LaGrone, Kennith Hammons, Craig Parker, Andy Moreland, Billy Dan Crossland, Ronnie Wooten, Mark Olson, Jack Swatzell, Billy Walker, David Graham, and James Cabe.

As a part of the Heritage program each boy who takes part will be asked to write a 25-100 word statement on what a boy can do to preserve his American Heritage. Awards for the best essays will be presented on a regional, council and unit level.

Cub Scouts will write on the theme, "Why I Love America." The theme for Boy Scout essays will be "What the Scout Oath and Law Mean to me as a Responsible American Citizen." Explorer Scouts will be asked to write on "My Role as a Proud, Modern American Patriot Defending the American Credo."

Essay entries will be judged by the Foundations Independent Awards Jury with boys asked to submit their entries to their individual unit leaders who will in turn submit them to the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. September has been set as the deadline for the essay contest.

CHS Choir In Contest

Canyon High School choir received a second division and a first division last week in the annual region II interscholastic league choir contest.

A first division is the highest award given to a choir and a first in both concert performance and sight reading gives a choir a sweepstakes award.

Canyon was the only choir in Class AA to receive a first division in sight reading at the contest held on the WTSU campus.

Perryton High School made the only first rating in the concert section of the competition. Hereford High School mixed choir and Canyon High School choir received the only second divisions awarded in the class.

Three songs performed by the Canyon Choir, under the direction of Gene Murray, were "Ava Maria", "The Falcon" and "Glory to God in the Highest."

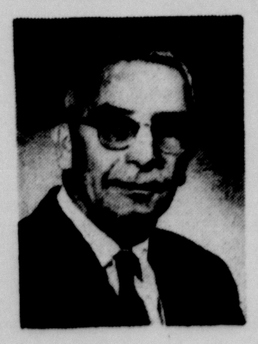

"All the judges were complimentary of the way the group looked and performed, but they felt our presentation could have been more polished," Murray said.
